Southern Ag Exchange Network

Reliable tools for a better tomorrow.

What's causing the stress?

A life centered on agriculture, farming, or ranching comes with a unique set of challenges for workers and their families.

People commonly experience stress from:

- Increasing economic uncertainty
- Occupational demands
- Weather and climate
- Social isolation
- Stigma surrounding help seeking
- Market uncertainties
- Physical health and injury
- Family conflict
- Legal issues

SAgE enables connections and solutions.

The Southern Ag Exchange Network (SAgE Network) provides reliable tools to alleviate stressors in the agricultural community.

By coordinating resources to reduce and respond to stress, the SAgE Network supports the overall well-being of people and families in farming, ranching and other agriculture-related occupations.

Improving wellbeing today fosters better tomorrows for people in agriculture.

Agriculture is hard work. But some struggles are simply too much.

We see a future where the naturally hard work of agriculture isn't worsened by stressors that make living or working feel impossible.

Farm stress is real. It shows up differently for each person. Too many people in agriculture are hiding or failing to recognize common signs and symptoms that touch all aspects of life:

Physical—headaches, exhaustion, trouble sleeping, unexplained muscle tightness

Emotional—irritability, anxiety, sadness

Mental—memory loss, trouble concentrating

Behavioral—violence, increased farm accidents, misuse of alcohol and/or drugs

Relationships—withdrawal, less interest in family activities, verbal outbursts
